President's Report December 2023

Where has this year gone? Surely it's only 6 months since last Christmas, they say the older you get the quicker time goes, I can certainly vouch for that. I have just finished looking at some photos from the early years of this Club, mostly group photos and it brought back many happy memories of good times with friends though a lot have passed away and many members can no longer participate because of health issues.

Maxine had a long conversation with Paddy Bullard, Paddy and David have been members for over twenty years joining when he was a RACV director, later becoming President during the RACV glory days. They were very active and up until eighteen months ago still attended our lunches. Unfortunately David's mobility is severely restricted and uses a walking frame and Paddy is vision impaired. They both said to wish you all a merry Christmas from them.

Looking back through the calendar I would have to say it has been a successful year for the Club with a good mix of events which were all well attended. One of the highlights for me of course was when I got Maxine to go on an event in the Spitfire, from Coldstream to Coldstream.

Finally I would like to wish all members a very Merry Christmas and hope next year will be a happy one for us all.

Tony Pettigrew

CLUB INFORMATION

Visit the club's Website for information about how club matters are conducted. This Website also features information about how the Victorian Club Permit Scheme (VCPS) is operated by the All British Classics Car Club Vic Inc.

Our club does have one explicit rule – for those motor cars operating on the Victorian Club Permit Scheme (VCPS), using the auspices of the All British Classics Car Club Vic Inc., for the ongoing benefit of the VCPS, their owners must continue to be a financial member for the duration of the permit period, and attend a minimum of three club events during the permit's active year. Failure to respect this rule will result in the VCPS renewal being insupportable and void.

This year we travelled to Echuca in Northern Victoria, the format being somewhat different and more relaxed than that of previous events.

What a great time enjoyed by all. Peter put together a fantastic tour; accommodations, meals, river cruise, get togethers over drinks and nibbles – all extremely good. This was our first Indulgence Tour and we thoroughly enjoyed it. Was interesting to see someone had the same idea of a good time as Peter, in naming their houseboat Indulgence! Thanks Ron Rogers & Glenda Duncan

Carry on Camping.....Some flash backs on British car campers/motorhomes

Britain's first tailor-made motorhome is 80 years old but it's got all mod cons and it could be yours for £40,000

Extracted from The Mirror by Barnaby Kelloway dated 25 Aug 2016

The incredible house on wheels features all cooking and sleeping facilities and was specially built by a naval aristocrat. With its classic design and traditional chassis, these pictures show the handsome vehicle that could be Britain's first ever motorhome .

The well-preserved bus is 80 years old and has been a home on wheels for an eccentric pioneer - but now it's going up for auction

The unique vehicle was created by naval aristocrat Captain Dunn, from Bexhill-on-Sea, who shipped a Pontiac Six chassis over from America in 1935 and engaged local coach builders to craft a bespoke home from home on the back. He then set off into the British countryside behind the wheel of his new creation.

The early campervan has been untouched since Dunn died in the 1940s and auctioneers Bonhams expect it to make £40,000 at their Goodwood Revival sale on September 10

The sophistication of the amenities on the inside is staggering considering it was constructed 80 years ago, boasting the same facilities as a 21st century campervan. Food and drink preparation is carried out from the humble kitchen, where there is a gas oven, stove and two-litre water filter.

Sleeping quarters are located at the rear, where the sofa pulls out in to a double bed.

There is even a lavatory, although no plumbing, meaning wastage drops from the bottom of the vehicle.

The interior is clad with elegant mahogany wood.

Experts say this cutting-edge incarnation was the first of its type to ever grace British shores.

The 80-year-old vehicle stands as a time-capsule in the 21st century, with original cutlery and crockery while brands from pre-war Britain are dotted around.

Empty tins of grapefruit and oxo cubes from the 1930s can be found inside the cupboards and a box of 'Borwick's' baking powder is perched on top of the oven.

The renovation was carried out by Russell's Coachworks of Bexhill, who were more accustomed to constructing horse drawn fire engines.

Mechanics today are dazzled by the work, especially the trailing edge of the front wings, where a thin line of perfect welding altered them to fit around the corners of the cab.

The blend of American and English styles is clear to see when looking at the finished product, the front end adopting Art Deco, while the rear exemplifies old English

The four-litre motor, which tops out at 50mph, has done under 10,000 miles and is valued at £40,000.

Capt Dunn initially made good use of the motorhome, his travels through southern England in the late 1930s are documented in four photo albums that come with the purchase.

The travel guides he is thought to have used to plan his journeys are also contained within a drawer in the living area.

Some time in the late 1930s or early 1940s the military man contracted polio while honeymooning with his wife, which left him paralysed and requiring the use of a wheelchair.

During WWII Capt Dunn was evacuated to Wales on account of his disability and in 1946 he died from the disease, leaving everything to his widow.

At this time the van could have been lost forever, as it is thought to have been available for commission during WWII.

Until 25 years ago it was splashed with green paint by way of camouflage so it could be deployed as a make-shift ambulance or troop carrier.

The van is said to have been placed in a barn in the 1940s, raised on blocks with the spark plugs removed and oil tipped into the cylinder bores. Every few months, until she died in 1991, Mrs Dunn would turn the engine over, which explains why it's in such good nick despite being off the road for so long.

With no children to speak of, Mrs Dunn left the vintage motorhome to her financial advisor, who sold it on to Ron Saunders, owner of a caravan dealership, for £6,000.

Mr Saunder's son, Andy, restored the aged vehicle, making necessary amendments such as fresh paintwork and a new battery.

Until now the vehicle was on display in a purpose-built showroom at the family's business in Poole, Dorset, intermittently hitting the road to be enjoyed at motor shows.

Ron Saunders has since died and the change of circumstances means that after 23 years Andy reluctantly has to say goodbye.

He said: "This is considered to be the first British motorhome and therefore the beginning of the campervan industry.

"It was the creation of Capt. Dunn, who had the vision as well as the money, to bring his dream to life.

"He was incredibly ahead of his time when you look at some of the amenities included within the vehicle.

"Great credit must be given to the builder too, Russell was able to construct the body without any previous motorhome experience."

He added: "It's a truly magnificent vehicle and I'll be terribly sad to see it go.

"I have never seen a vehicle generate so much attention at car shows, it blows people away.

"Not only is it absolutely beautiful but it also drives like a dream, which is staggering considering its age.

"Although I am reluctant to take it out because it's so pretty and I don't want any damage to be done."

A spokesman from Bonhams said: "This a wonderful opportunity to acquire a true time capsule.

"The perfectly preserved interior remains just as it was when the motor home was first purchased an incredible 80 years ago.

"It takes us back not only to an earlier era of motoring but to a time when life was almost unimaginably different."
